Information Concerning Gadolinium Contrast Material

Account:_____

As part of your examination, the radiologist may deem it necessary to give you an IV injection of a contrast agent containing gadolinium. The injection may help the physician to more accurately diagnose your condition. Although gadolinium contrast agents have been safely administered in millions of cases, minor reactions (principally headaches) occur in about 2% of patients.

Have you ever had a previous allergic reaction to gadolinium contrast material?

Yes_____ No_____

Do you have a history of asthma or emphysema?

Yes_____ No_____
